COMMENT ON REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

Applicants appreciate the first action allowance of the above-identified application. However, Applicants note for the record that Applicants do not acquiesce in the one stated reason of the Examiner or accept any negative inferences or claim construction limitations that flow therefrom. In particular, it is expressly noted that the Reasons for Allowance are not intended to be all encompassing or all exclusive. So, for example, although the Examiner characterizes the prior art as lacking an outlet at a second end, the Examiner could have equally characterized the art as lacking an inlet at the one end.

Applicants therefore reserve the right to argue any other bases for allowability of the claims, if necessary, in any future proceeding.

Respectfully submitted,

Matthew Felix Agostini et al.
